UNIVERSITY SEAL AND MOTTO

Soon after Northwestern University was founded, its Board of Trustees adopted an official corporate seal. This seal, approved on June 26, 1856, consisted of an open book surrounded by rays of light and circled by the words Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois.

Thirty years later, Daniel Bonbright, professor of Latin and a member of Northwestern's original faculty, redesigned the seal, retaining the book and light rays and adding two quotations. On the pages of the open book he placed a Greek quotation from the Gospel of Saint John, chapter 1, verse 14, translating to The Word . . . full of grace and truth. Circling the book are the first three words, in Latin, of the University motto: Quaecumque sunt vera (Whatever things are true). The outer border of the seal carries the name of the University and the date of its founding. This seal, which remains Northwestern's official signature, was approved by the Board of Trustees on December 5, 1890.

The full text of the University motto, adopted on June 17, 1890, is from the Epistle of Saint Paul to the Phillippians, chapter 4, verse 8:

*Whatsoever things are true,
whosoever things are honest,
whosoever things are just,
whosoever things are pure,
whosoever things are lovely,
whosoever things are of good report;
if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise,
think on these things.*

DAVID ALLAN BROMLEY

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

Ph.D., University of Rochester. Currently assistant for science and technology to President George Bush and director of the Office of Science and Technology Policy, Bromley is on leave from his position as Henry Ford II Professor of Physics at Yale University. He was founder and director of the A. W. Wright Nuclear Structure Laboratory at Yale. Bromley has long been involved in issues of national science policy and has been a vocal critic of the relative decline in United States investment in research and development, science education in schools, and the low numbers of women and minorities receiving advanced degrees in science. A pioneer in modern heavy-ion science, he has worked extensively on the structure and dynamics of nuclei. Bromley has served as the chair of the Physics Survey of the National Academy of Sciences, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and president of the International Union of Pure and Applied Physics. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences.

INGVAR CARLSSON

DOCTOR OF LAWS

M.S., University of Lund, 1958. Currently prime minister of Sweden and chair of the Swedish Social Democratic party, Carlsson assumed those offices in 1986 after the assassination of Olof Palme. Following general elections in 1988, he was reelected prime minister. A Fulbright scholar in economics at Northwestern during 1960–61, Carlsson was elected to the Swedish Parliament in 1964, becoming its youngest member. In 1967 he was named under secretary of state; two years later he was appointed minister of education and cultural affairs, becoming the youngest minister ever. He has also held the posts of deputy prime minister, minister of housing and physical planning, and Sweden's first minister for the environment. As prime minister, Carlsson has worked cooperatively with Swedish opposition parties to achieve major tax reform and thus stimulate the economy. He also led Parliament to agree that Sweden should apply for membership in the European Economic Community. Internationally, he has been a leader in the Six Nation Initiative, a group of heads of government working for a reduction of nuclear weapons.

JAMES P. COMER

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

M.D., Howard University, 1960. Currently Maurice Falk Professor of Child Psychiatry and director of the Child Study Center and School Development Program at Yale University, Comer is a leading theorist of urban school reform. Bringing the insights of child development and psychiatry and the realities of local school governance to bear on the educational problems of low-income and minority children, he has developed a program using a working partnership among school staff, students, and parents. The success of his pilot program in schools in disadvantaged neighborhoods of New Haven (where academic achievement rose significantly and disciplinary problems declined) has led to the implementation of the program in a hundred schools in eight states. The Rockefeller Foundation recently made a $17 million grant to create and implement a program for training school personnel based on his findings. A regular columnist in Parents magazine, Comer is the author of Beyond Black and White (1972), School Power: Implications of an Intervention Project (1980), and a memoir, Maggie's American Dream: The Life and Times of a Black Family (1988).

FRANCIS M. DENG

DOCTOR OF LAWS

J.S.D., Yale University, 1967. Currently senior fellow at the Brookings Institution, Deng was born in the southern Sudan and educated at Khartoum University and the University of London. He has served as human rights officer in the United Nations Secretariat, Sudan's minister of state for foreign affairs, and Sudan's ambassador to the United States, Canada, and the Scandinavian countries. Deng has worked to support individual human rights and to establish peace in Africa, including courageous efforts to resolve the long civil war in the Sudan and to remedy the plight of more than a million refugees in northeast Africa. He has taught at Columbia, Yale, and New York universities and is the author of two novels and several scholarly studies, including the Herskovits Award-winning Tradition and Modernization: A Challenge for Law among the Dinka of the Sudan (1971), The Dinka of the Sudan (1972), The Dinka and Their Songs (1973), and The Man Called Deng Majok: A Biography of Power, Polygyny, and Change (1986), a study of the life and world of his father, Chief Deng Majok of the Ngok Dinka.

ERIC RICHARD KANDEL

DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

M.D., New York University, 1956. University Professor at the Center for Neurobiology and Behavior at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University and senior investigator at the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, Kandel has been a leader in the study of biological mechanisms underlying psychological processes. He has pioneered the development of simple model systems to determine how the brain acquires new information about the environment and stores it as memory. He has analyzed the cellular and molecular mechanisms of short- and long-term memory and demonstrated that functional and structural changes in specific nerve cells and their interconnections constitute the basis of learning. Author of many scientific papers and books, including Cellular Basis of Behavior: An Introduction to Behavioral Neurobiology (1976), Kandel has served as president of the Society for Neuroscience and received the Lasker Award and the National Medal of Sciences. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the National Academy of Sciences, and the National Institute of Medicine.

ABNER JOSEPH MIKVA

DOCTOR OF LAWS

J.D., University of Chicago, 1951. Appointed to the bench in 1979, Mikva is chief judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, a court widely considered to be second in importance only to the U.S. Supreme Court. From 1957 to 1967 he served in the Illinois House of Representatives; from 1969 to 1972 he represented the Second Congressional District of Illinois in the U.S. House of Representatives; in 1974 he was elected to represent the Tenth Congressional District, including Evanston. As a legislator, Mikva resolved "to sit as a court of one and pass on the constitutionality of every bill before voting on it." Though sometimes considered a judicial activist, he has been eager as a judge to defer to legislative action whenever possible to minimize tension between the judicial and legislative branches of government. Author of numerous important law review articles, he is recognized as a trenchant commentator on matters touching on the legislative and judicial processes. Mikva has been active in the affairs of the American Bar Association and chaired its Section of Individual Rights and Responsibilities. He has taught at several law schools, including Northwestern's.

A C A D E M I C D R E S S

Modern academic attire originated in the medieval universities of Europe, where gowns were worn daily to provide identification of the wearer's academic area and warmth in poorly heated buildings. Two English universities, Oxford and Cambridge, are particularly noted for developing the authentic academic costume, which has changed only slightly through the centuries.

In the United States the great majority of academic attire now worn is in accordance with the general provisions of the Intercollegiate Code of 1895, which was revised in 1932 and again in 1959. Under this code the bachelor's gown has pointed sleeves and is worn closed; the master's gown has oblong sleeves with an arc at the bottom and may be worn open or closed; and the doctor's gown, which may also be worn open or closed, has velvet facings down the front and three velvet bars on the bell-shaped sleeves. This velvet trim may be black or the prescribed color of the academic area. The recommended color for gowns is black, although many institutions have adopted colored ones. Graduates of foreign universities wear gowns of various colors.

The hood identifies the level of the degree, the school that granted it, and the academic area. The bachelor's hood, which is optional and not worn at Northwestern University, is three feet in length; the master's, three and one-half feet; and the doctor's, four feet. Hoods are lined with silk in the official color of the school; at Northwestern the lining is purple. The velvet border of the hood, which is two, three, and five inches wide for the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees, respectively, identifies the academic area.

The square black mortarboard is the recommended cap, although some schools have adopted other styles. At Northwestern the color of the tassel represents the academic area. Caps are worn throughout the Commencement ceremony, except that men remove them for the national anthem, invocation, and benediction.

At Northwestern University, members of the Mortar Board senior honor society wear gold shoulder cords, and members of the Tau Beta Pi national engineering honor society wear white shoulder cords. The tassels and borders of the hoods are the following colors:

College of Arts and Sciences	White
Medical School	Green
School of Law	Purple
School of Speech	Silver Gray
Dental School	Lilac
School of Music	Pink
J. L. Kellogg Graduate School of Management	Acorn
Medill School of Journalism	Crimson
